WOW cites community contributions in annual citizens' awards night in Appomattox County

"Brighten Up The Corner Where They Are" was the theme of the Woodmen Of The World Camp 71 and Grove 6073 program at their annual awards night, held on October 2.

The building was decorated with white candles, flowers, and greenery to highlight this recognition of well-deserved citizens of Appomattox and Lenny Skutnit from Lorton, Virginia.

Master of ceremony was Harry E. Ranson.

Mr. John Curtis Caldwell was presented the Outstanding Citizenship award on behalf of the Woodmen Of The World. The presentation was made by Floyd W. Fleshman, Jr. and since Caldwell was not able to be present, the award was accepted very graciously by his son, Jack Caldwell.

Caldwell was commended for his part in making Appomattox a better place in which to live.

Caldwell is married to the former Vivian Wooldridge and they reside on Court Street in Appomattox.

The Conservation Award was presented to John W. Hix and William Hix. This presentation was made by Dennis W. Torrence, who commended these men for the job they have done in practicing conservation on their own farm as well as promoting conservation in the area. Not pictured but in attendance were Glenna and daughter, Mary Beth, with William Hix.

Cecil W. Deaner, President of Camp 71 presented the Woman Of Woodcraft Award to Edna B. Anderson on behalf of Grove 6078. This is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a member of the local unit. Edna has been an inspiration to all the ladies who are part of the local grove.

The Mr. Woodmen Awards were presented to Beverly K. Martin by Cecil W. Deaner. B. K. was voted to receive this award by his fellow members of the camp. This is the highest honor that can be bestowed on a member of the local camp.

A candle-light memorial service was held to honor all deceased members of both units. Families of the deceased members were invited as a living tribute was paid to deceased members. The Rev. Bob Williams of New Hope Baptist conducted this part of the program.

Margie Reider, president of Grove 6073 presented 36 pairs of gloves and a high pressure nozzle to the Appomattox County Volunteer Fire Department. The gift was accepted by Hugh Mitchell.

The Appomattox County Rescue Squad was also presented a new "Resuscitator Annie" by Grove 6073. The presentation was made by Margie Reider and accepted by Ray Noble.

Johnny Canada presented two stove units on behalf of Camp 71 for use at the Appomattox Town Playground. The gift was accepted by Mayor Ronnie Spiggle.

Jurisdictional Vice-President, R. B. Moore presented two two-way radios to the Concord Rescue Squad

The gift was accepted by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Adie.

A high-pressure nozzle and hose was presented to the Red House Volunteer Fire Department. The presentation was made by R. B. Moore and accepted on behalf of the department by Hugh Mitchell.

Daniel receives NFIB award

Rep. Dan Daniel has earned the "Guardian of Small Business" Award -- and an endorsement for re-election -- from the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) for his outstanding voting record on small-business issues.

The nation's largest small-business group presented Daniel with the award because he voted with a majority of NFIB members 82 percent of the time.

On announcing the award, NFIB President Wilson S. Johnson said, "The voting record of Rep. Daniel this Congress demonstrates that he is responsive to the needs of his state, because small businesses create the majority of new jobs and if left to flourish, will be a major factor in restoring economic growth."

House members were rated on 22 recorded votes during this session of Congress. Issues ranged from cutting the budget to raising unemployment taxes and foreing the government to pay its bills on time. Those members of Congress who did not have recorded votes on at least 70 percent of the issues included in the ratings were not eligible for the award.

NFIB is a non-profit, non-partisan organization representing 7,674 small-business owners in Virginia and more than a half-million independent businesses across the country.

Mrs. Roy Jackson Lee, Jr.

Moore, Lee are wed

The marriage of Miss Laura Dena Moore to Mr. Roy Jackson Lee, Jr. took place on Saturday, October 16 at two o'clock in the afternoon in Mt. Pisgah United Methodist Church in Greensboro, N .C. The Rev. Herb Perry and the Rev. Dana Wooten officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry C. Moore of Greensboro, N.C. (formerly of Appomattox) and the late Henry C. Moore. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jackson Lee, Sr. of Summer Field, N.C.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Richard Clem Moore of Appomattox, wore a formal gown of ivory organza. It featured a victorian neckline with a brussels lace accent, a princess waistline with a schiffli flounce, long fitted sleeves trimmed in schiffli lace. The full A-line skirt swept to a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a wreath of silk flowers, and pearls. Her bouquet was an armgay of sonya roses, ivory orchids and baby's breath.

Mrs. Larry Pegram of Greensboro was matron of honor. Her floor length gown was fashioned with an ivory lace bodice and a coral skirt. She carried a flower ring wrapped in ivory satin with silk sonya roses, minature orchids and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Andrew McDougal and Mrs. Larry Hart. They wore gowns identical to that of the honor attendant and carried similar flower rings.

Mr. Jackson was his son's best man. Ushers were Hubert Gibson and Larry Pegram.

The mother of the bride wore a formal coral gown of crepe and lace and wore a white orchid corsage. The mother of the groom wore a formal gown of ultramarine blue chiffon and wore a white orchid corsage.

The grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Trudy Doss wore a navy dress with matching jacket accented with white trim and she wore a white carnation corsage.

The bride is a graduate of University of N. C. at Greensboro and she is employed as Export Parts Coordinator at Volvo White Corp.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Carolina School of Broadcasting at Charlotte, N. C. and is employed as Sales Counselor, Circuit City, Greensboro.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother entertained with a reception at the Alumni House, University of North Carolina.

After a trip to the Virginia Mountains, the couple will reside in Greensboro.

Good News for Homemakers

On home-canned foods

By SHIRLEY W. WALTON
Extension Agent

Home canned foods will remain high in quality for one year if they are properly stored. After one year, the foods may lose some of their nutritive quality. The United States Department of Agriculture nutritionists recommend you store canned foods in a clean, cool, dry area away from bright light, particulary sunlight, and in an area where foods will not freeze or be exposed to high temperatures.

Excessive dampness will rust cans or metal lids and this can lead to leakage and spoiled foods. Freezing causes expansion of the food, which means the jar lid may loosen, the jar may crack or the seams of a tin can may be stressed. This, too, can lead to leakage and food spoilage.

In canning the heat destroys all normal spoilage bacteria that can grow under the usual storage conditions and it destroys all bacteria harmful to humans. But one group of bacteria often survives both the home and commercial canning process. This bacteria produces extremely heat resistant spores that can only germinate and grow at high storage temperatures such as those about 103° F.

This bacteria is of little concern from the view of spoilage and no concern at all from the standpoint of human health. However, if you store canned foods in the attic or near hot water pipes, or in any area where the temperature may exceed 102° at any time, these heat loving bacteria called thermophilic can grow and spoil the produce.

Another Good Reminder: Date your canned products. That's important. Some particularly high acid products such as tomatoes will slowly react with the metal in the can or jar lid, leading to corrosion and container failure. So store canned foods away from excessive heat or icy glass and use the food within a year and you will be eating good quality canned foods.

Should you see any tin cans that you have canned at a community cannery or purchased with bulging lids, please destroy these at once. Do not open and taste the contents. Just get rid of the can.

I also wish to caution you about buying a lot of canned goods and keeping them on the shelf for several years. This is not a wise practice and you are not getting the best nutrition possible for your family.

If you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call 352-8244 or write P.O. Box 498, Appomattox, VA 24522. It is always a pleasure to hear from you and to help you.

Have a good week!

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Chicken Casserole

3½ lbs. chicken or 4 breasts
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped nuts (almonds or pecans)
1 10 oz. can cream chicken soup
1 cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook chicken in pressure cooker, cut up. Cool, debone and cut in bite size pieces. Mix chicken with all ingredients. Put in 2 qt. casserole - top with prepared dressing mix or crushed potato chips. Dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake uncovered at 350° until bubbling - about 30 minutes. Serves: 6

Good to freeze before baking. May be frozen in one or two aluminum pans.

Many thanks to Mrs. Ann Varner from Farmville for this delicious recipe.
